ORG 6900 - ST: Online-Symposium-Diversity (CRN 33620): The topic of “diversity” is everywhere these days, but free discussion of the issue is hard to find. Yet, certainly a matter of this importance should be examined from all sides. This class is intended to provide an opportunity for open and robust discussion of diversity and the related matter of affirmative action, using a range of contemporary writings representing different perspectives. We’ll look at issues like what does diversity really mean, what is the evidence that diversity benefits an organization, how do the mechanisms that promote diversity in an organization actually work, and why is there such a taboo around the issue of diversity. The class will take place on the internet, which provides a wonderful means for holding free discussion.
