Have you avoided using Moodle because it sounds too “techy”? We will explore the ways to use it simply to make life a lot easier for any level of computer user. When students lose a copy of a handout or wonder how they are doing in class, Moodle can help them and teachers manage resources. Moodle is an online space where you can organize class content, even as you teach the traditional face-to-face class. Shaun Moore of e-Learning will show us

- Moodle’s main tools (communication, grades, document sharing)
- Its advantages for faculty and students
- The Moodle training services available through e-Learning

Register at oakland.edu/cetl by clicking on WORKSHOPS.